MINGLING OF EX-CONFEDERATES

R. E. Lee Camp Appropriately Celebrates R. E. Lee's Birthday

RECEIVES GOLD PIN

Thrilling Addresses Delivered After Royal Banquet at Confederate Veterans' Building.

The annual happy gathering of ex-Confederates with many of their friends, took place last night in Confederate Veterans' Hall, on Prince street. This annual reunion and banquet has long been one of the most interesting of the winter season, and the occasion last night was one of the happiest ever given by Alexandria's honored organization. There was a flow of soul from start to finish—everybody was happy and the party adjourned at a late hour with their souls enthused by their experience.

Speeches were made by Hon. William J. Sears, of Florida; Colonel James Morris Morgan, of Washington; Robert S. Barrett, editor of the Alexandria Gazette and Capt. Marmaduke.

There were features not upon the program which were exhilerating, the presentation by Mr. John M. Johnson on behalf of the Virginia division of the U. D. C., of a gold cross of honor to Mrs. J. E. Alexander, and a handsome bouquet to the same lady on behalf of her associates in Alexandria, by Rev. W. J. Morton, rector of Christ Church. These tokens were in appreciation of the long years of service of this lady to the survivors of the Army of Northern Virginia, as well as her indefatigable labors for the Confederates during the war between the States.

J. W. Hammond presided in the absence of Commander Smoot and acted as toastmaster.

The company began to gather shortly before 8 o'clock and about 8:30 they were summoned from the upper rooms to the banquet room on the first floor, where the members of the Woman's Auxiliary and United Daughters of the Confederacy had prepared a royal feast. The following was the menu:

Raw Lynn Haven Oyster

After an invocation by Rev. W. J. Morton, the company proceeded to the discussion of the tempting viands. The ladies of the Woman's Auxiliary and United Daughters of the Confederacy acted as waitresses and the dexterity with which they moved and served their guests was as usual the subject of comment. They kept their eyes upon each guest and there was no waiting for anything; in fact they anticipated every want before requests could be made.

After about an hour spent in feasting the toastmaster rapped the assembly to order, when Mr. John M. Johnson arose, and in a short and appropriate address presented Mrs. J. E. Alexander, of Virginia Division, U. D. C., with a gold cross pin for her love, affection and labor, which have so materially aided in perpetuating the memories of the southern soldier during the past half century in Alexandria. Mr. Johnson, said, it was not the intrinsic value of the jewel which would appeal to the recipient, but the inestimable esteem in which she has ever been held by those for whom she has given so much of her life.

Mrs. Alexander's reply was touching. It was couched in few words, but each one pregnant with meaning. She said it was useless to attempt to make a suitable reply in receiving this great token, especially at the anniversary of General Lee's birthday. Had the scene occurred at a meeting of the Virginia Division, she might have been equal to the occasion. Mrs. Alexander said, she felt as though she, too, was a Confederate veteran, and gave a rapid resume of her experience and labors in the cause of the Confederacy during nearly the entire four years' war. She told of leaving Alexandria, May 24, 1861, with her father (the late Isaac Kell), mother, sisters and brothers. She was near the field at the first battle of Manassas aiding in bandaging the wounded, and said the cries of the dying were still ringing in her ears. She had followed the fortunes of the Confederacy until the father of the family paid the debt nature at Charlottesville, shortly before the close of hostilities. Mrs. Alexander during all those years had worked in hospitals and upon the battlefields, She closed by thanking Mr. Johnson and the camp he represented for the honor which had been confered upon her.

Mrs. Alexander had barely become seated when she was again called to her feet by Rev. Mr. Morton, who presented her with a handsome bouquet, another token of appreciation of her untiring labors for the memories of the south.

Adjutant Edgar Warfield was subsequently called upon to read "General Lee's Farewell Address," which he did in his usual impressive manner.

Hon. Frank Clark, of Florida, was to have responded to the toast, "General Robert E. Lee," and his colleague, Hon. W. J. Sears, to that of "The Sons of Confederate Veterans," but Mr. Clark had been taken ill and was unable to fill his appointment, and it devolved upon Mr. Sears to act as his proxy as well as to handle the theme upon which he was to speak. He proved equal to the occasion, and not only spoke of General Lee in a most interesting and impressive manner, but of Confederate veterans, sons of veterans and the south, punctuating his remarks with amusing anecdotes. He also reproduced much history in connection with reconstruction days which was listened to with close attention.

The presentation by Dr. Jacquelin A. Marshall to Miss Rebecca Moore of the prize for the best essay upon Robert E. Lee was the next interesting feature of the evening. The prize was a copy of Mr. C. H. Callahan's book, "Washington, the man and the Mason."

Colonel James Morris Morgan, of washington, was the next speaker. His theme was "The Confederate Navy," which he handled in an entertaining manner. The speaker uttered many truths, which should be remembered. He called attention to the fact that the south revolutionized the navies of the world, having constructed the first ironclads, the first torpedo boats, mines and torpedoes, His descriptions of the battle at Mobile Bay, that at Charleston the contest between the Merrimac and Monitor in Hampton Roads and the careers of the Sumter, Alabama, Florida, Shenandoah, Nashville and other vessels flying the Confederate colors were thrilling.

Mr. Robert S. Barrett, editor of the Alexandria Gazette, followed Colonel Morgan. His address was on the "Southern Soldier," and he made reference to the fact that the men who wore the gray believed in preparedness and that their example should prove an incentive to the present generation when the President of the United States was urging the adoption of a program which would place the country in a position to defend itself if need be.

Mr. Barrett made an earnest appeal to the patriotism of the present generation, and sustained the President in his determination to place the country in a safe condition should any nation attempt to disturb the waters in this section of the globe.

Captain Marmaduke was the last speaker. He came as a gleaner after Colonel Morgan, adding several interesting reminiscences concerning the navy of the Confederate States.

The company took leave of each other about eleven o'clock all greatly pleased with their evening's experience.

Increases in pay, averaging 5 per cent., will be given master mechanics in the navy yards throughout the United States. Secretary Daniels said yesterday he had decided to grant the increases and would make the meffective within the next two weeks.

PREPARING FOR ENFORCEMENT

Virginia Senate Gets First Prohibition Measure Yesterday

POWER IN GOVERNOR

Gives Him Authority to Appoint Agents and Instruct Attorney General to Appear.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 20.—The Legislature began yesterday the consideration of the first of a series of measures designed to make effective the prohibition amendment, which becomes effective on November 1.

Senators Strode and Addison introduced in the Senate a bill which covers every phase of the question except shipment and delivery. This will be covered in a supplementary measure after a decision has been rendered on the Webb-Kenyon bill, now before the United States Supreme Court.

The bill is based on West Virginia and North Carolina laws, the penalty for the first violation being a fine of $50, with a discretionary jail sentence. On a second offense the fine is raised to $100, with a jail sentence of from two to six months and the forfeiture of a $500 peace bond.

Licensed pharmacists are permitted to fill prescriptions from registered physicians, provided the prescription is not for more than one-half pint.

Clubs are forbidden from having liquor on their premises, but an individual may have as much as two gallons at one time, but he must not give it away or sell it.

The Governor is given authority to appoint officers and agents to enforce the laws, and the bill appropriates $25,000 annually to cover expenses.

Declaring for the election by the General Assembly of a Commissioner of Moral Welfare to enforce the prohibition statutes, the report of the legislative committee of the Anti-Saloon League of Virginia was submitted at the opening of the fifteenth annual convention of the league in Broad Street Methodist Church last night. The recommendation is in contrast to the message of Governor Stuart, who urged that the Chief Executive of the State be given authority to enforce the dry laws.

The reason assigned for the election of the commissioner by the General Assembly, in the report read by Rev. James Cannon, jr., last night, is that official should not be under the Governor "any more than is the Attorney-General, the Commissioner of Agriculture, the Auditor of Public Accounts and other officals who are charged with duties pertaining to the entire State."

The Anti-Saloon League report agrees with the recommendations of the Governor that suitable statutes be enacted designed to remove from office any official who does not obey his oath to enforce the prohibition laws of the State.

The report deals at some length with the question of antishipment statute. It recommends that, for the present at least, any citizen be allowed to import for personal use a reasonable amount of whiskey. The Anti-Saloon League, while favoring national prohibition, does not believe the time has come entirely to prohibit, the personal use of intoxicants by individuals, but does propose to bar the traffic, Later legislation, it is stated, may be asked after the courts have passed on the constitutionality of the antishipping laws now before the Supreme Court of the United States.

SIMS-LILE JUDGESHIP FIGHT

Supporters Issue Statements Predict Victory at To-Night's Caucus

Richmond, Jan. 20—On the eve of the most keenly-waged contest for a nomination at the hands of the General Assembly that Virginia has seen in many years, both the supporters of Judge Frederick W. Sims and Professor William Minor Lile, issued statements late last night confidently predicting the nomination of their candidate for the impending vacancy on the State Supreme Court bench.

At the headquarters of the two aspirants for the judgeship friends and supporters were in session until late at night. Animated meetings were held by both the Lile and Sims adherents. The tense situation was reflected in the gossip of the lobby and galleries, where groups of delegates and Senators discussed to-night's election with high degree of interest.

At the Sims headquarters it was stated that during the evening six members of the caucus who had been counted with the opposite side came in and gave their assurance that they would support the Louisa men. The members in consultation with the leaders of the Sims forces included a number of the most representative men in the General Assembly.

Phil B. Porter, clerk of the Louisa county Circuit Court, who has been in charge of the details of the campaign in behalf of Judge Sims, issued the following official statement:

"I am confident that the fight is won. After a careful poll of the joint caucus roll it can be stated with every assurance that Judge Sims has a safe majority, which will unquestionably undergo no change."

WILL FOLLOW UP THE PRESIDENT

Anti-Preparedness Agitators Arrange For a Special Train

INVITE WM. J. BRYAN

Propose to Keep on Wilson's Heels, Opposing Defense Plans Where-ever He May Speak

Washington, Jan. 20.—An effort to put William Jennings Bryan on the trail of President Wilson when the latter makes his "swing around the circle" to talk preparedness has been begun.

A group of anti-preparedness agitators in and out of Congress wired the former Secretary of State urging him to make one of a party on a special train to follow the President, hold meetings in the cities where the President speaks, and conduct a general anti-preparedness campaign. The communication was sent by Representative Warren Worth Bailey, of Pennsylvania, one of the peace advocates in the House. No reply has yet been received from Mr. Bryan.

Among the other members of the proposed campaign party to be conducted in opposition to the President's speechmaking tour are:

Rabbi Stephen Wise, of New York; Morris Hillquit, Dr. Washington Gladden, O. G. Villard, Norman Angell and Representatives Frank Buchanan, of Illinois,; Meyer London, of New York, and W. W. Bailey, of Pennsylvania.

President Wilson is personally arranging the itinerary for his speaking tour.

It was authoritatively announced at the White House that President Wilson would not speak in Nebraska, Mr. Bryan's home state.

Tentative plans are for the President to make two trips within the next six weeks. On the first tour, which will probably begin January 29, two days after President Wilson speaks in New York. Des Moines, Iowa, will be the furthest point West that will be touched, although Kansas City may be visited.

Invitations from many cities in the South and Middle West urging the President to speak, have reached the White House. Mayors and commercial organizations sent most of the telegrams, all of which were answered by saying that definite plans had not been made, but that each city would be considered by the President. Telegrams were received from Dallas, Oklahoma City, Minneapolis, Des Moines, and a number of cities in the South.

The President may make a third trip, which will take him through the Northwest and Pacific Coast cities. This tour, if made, will be in April, and will depend upon developments up to that time.

There is a strong possibility that the President will include Virginia in his itinerary when he tours the South and the West. He will be extended an invitation to address the Virginia General Assembly while it is in session during the next two months, and members of the State delegation in Congress are now hopeful he will accept, in view of his decision to make a short tour of the country. Senators Martin and Swanson have arranged with the White House for a committee from the Virginia Legislature to call next Monday and extend the General Assembly's invitation.

In Virginia Representative Saunders, of the Danville district, is openly opposing the President's program. Representative Jones, of the Eastern Shore district, is lukewarm and must be "shown." Other members in the House from Virginia are not as strong in their support of the new army and navy program as they were when Congress convened. The bulk of them are against the continental arm yscheme, proposed by secretary of War Garrison and they are supposed to follow Representative Hay's proposition for Federal pay for the State militia as a substitute.

A strong speech by the President in Virginia, in which he would make a direct appeal for the support of that state for a "better prepared army and navy," according to the Administration's supporters from Virginia, would go far toward bolstering up and strengthening public sentiment in favor of the progress. In the Valley and Piedmont sections of Virginia there are large settlements of Quakers and Germans. These people are said to be strongly opposed to the President's new army and navy policies, and both of them are factors at the polls.

MONTENEGRO BALKS

Little Kingdom Reported to Have Broken All Peace Negotiations With Austria.

London, Jan. 20—Montenegro has broken off peace negotiations with Austria, according to an official statement issued at the French Embassy. King Nicholas and his family and suite, Paris says, have sailed for Italy.

The Austrian terms were so harsh that Montenegro even though at the mercy of the invaders, could not accept them. These terms, included the giving up of all railways and personal towns as well as complete disarmament which was to continue after the war. In return Nicholas or his son, Prince Peter, was to rule over a state comprising practically all of present Montenegro except Mount Lovien and a part of Old Serbia as a nation was to be wiped from the map.

Rome, Jan. 20—The Austrians are encountering serious difficulty in disarming the Montenegrins, who are hiding their rifles. While many soldiers and officers are deserting, others have refused to lay down their arms and have fled to the mountains, determined to resist attempts to disarm them.

Even those who have been persuaded to surrender are now indignant because the Austrians are supplying rifles to the Albanians, who are notoriously hostile to the Montenegrins The Austrians will probably send punitive expeditions into the interior, helped by the Albanians. The Austrians are adopting defensive measures but it is not likely they will attempt to advance in Albania before spring.

Rome, Jan. 20—It was learned here last night that the family of King Nicholas of Montenegro is bitterly incensed at what they term his betrayal of his country to Austria.

Two of the king's daughters, one of which is the wife of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, and the other the wife of Grand Duke Peter Nicolajewitch, of Russia, made vigorous effort to induce their father to fight to the last.

They have decided, it was stated here on good authority, tonight, to have no further communication direct or indirect with their father as long as the war lasts.

REJECTS PLAN IN LUSITANIA CASE

United States Declines to Let Berlin Make Reserves

ANOTHER PLAN SOON

Next Proposal Expected to Put Matter on Similar Ground to the Case of the Arabic.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Germany's proposal to incorporate in the settlement of the Lusitania case a reservation of any admission of wrongdoing by her submarine commander is understood to have been rejected by the United States. A new proposal from the Berlin Government is expected momentarily, however, and there is a possibility that the controversy may be closed by the elimination of all mention of the merits or demerits of the actual torpedoing of the vessel, Germany agreeing to pay an indemnity for the American lives lost, reiterating expressions of regret and calling attention, directly or by inference, to the contention that she already has given the most effective disavowal by making assurances for the future.

If in the new proposition there should be another such reservation or any attempt to justify the sinking of the Lusitania on the ground that the act constituted a reprisal in retaliation for the British blockade of Germany, that also probably will be rejected. There were indications tonight however, that Germany believes that the United States might, under certain circumstances, accept a proposal omitting mention of the legality or illegality of the act. One of a somewhat similar nature resulted in an agreement over the sinking of the steamship Arabic.

Because the negotiations, by mutual agreement, are held to be confidential by officials of the State Department and the German Embassy, it has not been disclosed just how far a proposal of this character would go toward a complete settlement satisfactory to both sides, or whether the United States is prepared to insist upon Germany admitting in so many words that the torpedoing of the Lusitania was unjustifiable.

There are, it is said numerous objections to accepting a form of settlement, which, by going into a discussion of the broad questions involved, might serve as an undesirable precedent in future. Such a form is understood to have been suggested in the most recent proposal submitted by Germany through Ambassador von Bernstorff, It is known that the opinion prevails in various quarters that such a discussion virtually is superfluous, the belief being that the United States already has achieved its aims.

Official and Teutonic diplomatic circles remain optimistic regarding the ultimate outcome of the negotiations. A strong desire prevails to settle the controversy in a manner satisfactory to both Governments and pleasing to public opinion in both countries Officials, however, do not believe that a settlement in which Germany was permitted to reserve an admission of wrongdoing would meet with approval in the United States.

On the other hand, it is declared that the opposition in Germany and public opinion there would not approve of a settlement which would entail an admission that the commander of the submarine was wrong in sinking the Lusitania. Consequently, it is considered in various quarters there is a strong probability that a settlement may be offered by eliminating discussion of the acts of the commander under a policy of the German Government which since has been changed as the result of negotiations with the United States over submarine warfare.

Fifty families were made homeless and 11 buildings in Passaic, N. J., were destroyed yesterday with a loss estimated at $250,000, by a fire in the business part of the city. The flames were fanned by cold wind and there was considerable suffering among those driven fro mtheir beds.

COMMISSIONERS MEET

Report of Chief of Police Read at Regular Monthly Meeting Last Night.

An urgent plea for a police patrol, a police call system, finger print identificat ionsystem and more money for the police officers will be urged by the board of police commissioners following the receipt last night of the annual report of Chief of Police Goods, in which he urged that the board secure from council an appropriation for these purposes. The board decided to hold a special meeting on next Tuesday night at which time the revision of the police rules will be taken up and by that time it is expected that they will have arranged a joint meeting with the committees on fire and police of city councily in order to present their views to the members of the two committees.

Members of the board were indignant last night when it was brought to their attention that occurances contrary to the proper conduct of the department were not reported to the board. No report had been made to them of an episode in which Sergeant Scott and Officer Talbott figured, although the chief explained that the matter had been investigated by Mayor Fisher. An investigation followed and the two officers were summonded before the board. Policeman Talbott was suspended for ten days for three violations of the rules and Sergeant Scott was reprimanded for failure to make a report in writing of the conduct of the officer.

At the request of the Rosemont Citizens' Association the police conferred special police powers upon E. C. Beahm.

At last night's meeting Commissioner Schwarzmann presided and there were present Commissioners Knight, Shinn and Sweeney.

The report of the Chief was as follows:

"For the past nine years I have submitted to you an annual report of the working, and operations of the Police Department of the city of Alexandria. During that time I have made practically the same report, and have put up the same plea that we need more efficient and better equipment in the discharge of the ever increasing duties of the Police Department.

"But, Gentlemen of the Board of Police Commissioners, I come to you this year in a stronger, and more persistent effort and plea, asking you in the name of reason, common sense and in the name of fairness to the Police Department, the city, and the officers in charge to increase the equipment of the Police Department to the extent of having installed immediately a patrol wagon; an alarm system; finger-printer, and I may add more money for the officers.

"I have three reasons for these requests, First: They are needed. Why are they needed?

"The city of Alexandria during the calendar year of 1915 extended its limits, taking in the suburban villages, which makes the city at present extend over about two square miles. Now in order to cover this territory, and at the same time to produce results, which are for the benefit, as well as for the protection of the citizens, and their welfare, a patrol wagon is no longer a dream of fancy, but a necessity, and the sooner it is installed the sooner the protection of the citizens will be guaranteed. The alarm system, or the call-up system is highly needed at this particular time. It gives warning of criminal action causes arrests, while in its absence some escape punshment, who should be arrested and sentenced. The fire department has recently installed a motor-driven engine, to be used for the protection of material property Now Gentlemen, is the loss of property to be valued more than the loss of human life? We are all aware of the fact that many insults derive from the lack of punishment, and the strict enforcement of the Police regulation caused by the lack and absence of these various systems, and not by the lack of the present officers fulfilling their duty, who should be congratulated on every hand for the excellent and efficient duties they have performed under the present system; and how much better they could perform their duties, if they only had the equipment to enforce them.

"The time was, when an officer of the law could be secured by a very small salary, but the day has arrived when you must pay for what you get; and in order to get a good officer, a man capable of doing his duty, their salaries must be increased, and I take advantage of this opportunity in this my ninth annual report to recommend the increase in salary of each officer now employed in the Police Department. I think, that from the long and [illegible] hours they have to work, the exposure they have to endure, the danger they are compelled to undergo in performing their duties, that their salaries should be increased accordingly. I most heartily and sincerely recommend the same.

"Second—Public opinion necessitates the equipments. There is but one way to judge a town, and that is by the way she does things. To present a good appearance in the Police Department, and to make an impression on every citizen to the extent that they must obey and honor the law, the rules of the Police Departments; the equipment asked for must be granted and installed immediately and it is up to you.

"Third—My last reason is expressed in the language of what other towns and cities of equal size are doing in comparison to what is being done in our own city of Alexandria. Now if we must complete with other towns, in size, in quality, in appearance and importance, we must begin at once to increase the equipment of the Department, and to increase the salaries of the officers who must fill their duties.

"Now, Gentlemen, in conclusion I hope you will take what I have said to heart, that you will weigh it to the fullest extent, ponder over it, giving to it in every particular a due consideration and fair test, and I think each of you will agree with me in what I have said and will act accordingly. Furthermore, I desire to extend in behalf of the Police Department my heartest thanks to the Honorable Mayor, and the Board of Police Commissioners."

Thre total arrests for the year were 1,156 which shows in detailed statistic below. The number of lodgers accomodated were 1,935. The amount of lost and stolen property reported was $8,836.35, the amount recovered $5,585.35.

NEW OPERA HOUSE.

Holiday Bill Offered Proves to be One of Merit.

A holiday crowd, a holiday spirit, and a holiday bill was in evidence last evening at the New Opera House.

The change of bill promised by the Manhattan Musical Girls Comedy Co., was carried out in every feature. Throughout, the work of the whole company is exceptionally clever, and the various specialties offered were well received by a most enthusiastic audience. Special mention might be made of the hard working comedian, Bobby Hagan, who made a hit with the entire house and Miss Ethel Hagan again received well deserved applause.

Messrs. Phillips and Clarke wish once more to draw the attention of our readers to the big attraction on Friday night. The Country Store, given by E. Lawrence Phillips, will undoubtedly prove a revelation to the patrons of this house, being an innovation of a kind that will be one of the greatest surprises to the public of Alexandria at the present time. Valuable, useful and even expensive presents are listed for distribution at this affair.

EAGLES SUE FOR RENT

Case In Corporation Court Over Rental of Hotel Fleischmann.

In the corporation court today before Judge L. C. Barley and a jury, the suit of Alva Aerie, No. 871, Fraternal Order of Eagles, against Harry Fleischmann, proprietor of the Hotel Fleischmann was commenced. The suit of the Eagles is to collect back rent due on the building. In his defense Fleischmann stated that the building was not kept in repair, that the north wall was torn out and never put back in the condition it should have been, that the roof leaked and that the interior needed new paper and paint. On account of this condition he claimed that he lost a large amount of money. His lease called for the payment of $60 per month.

Practically all day was given to the hearing of testimony. The case will be concluded tonight.

The jury is composed of R. C. H. Beverley, R. Lee Field, Lewis E. Butts, W. H. Humphries, M. L. Reishcill, Samuel R. Luckett and Max Rosenfeld.

The Eagles are represented by Gardner L. Boothe and Edmund Burke and Fred P. Russell appear for Mr. Fleischmann.

ENERAL LEE'S IRTHDAY.

The anniversary of the birth of obert E. Lee was celebrated through- t the southern country yesterday d last night. In the Old Dominion e celebration was especially marked is the case on every recurrence, rginians of all classes rejoicing in e fact that Robert E. Lee is among galaxy of the great of which the ate is justly proud.

While there was no celebration esterday in this city, the occasion as observed as a holiday in most stances. The banks were closed, as ere also the schools, and there was quiet observance of the day. As is enerally the case, everything was entred in the reunion of ex-Confed- rate at night at Confederate Vet- rans' Home, where R. E. Lee Camp ld their grand banquet.

The scenes were festive and impres- ve. Features were sprung upon the ompany which will form green spots the memories of all who were pre- ent. The speeches were animating nd instructive and abounded in hu- or. But it was generally agreed that he most interesting address was the mpromptu words of an estimable ady of this community who found erself confronting Congressmen and ther representative men and who was ompelled to arise in their midst and eceive a just tribute to her worth the shape of a gold cross pin for ervices she has rendered ex-Con- federates not only in the time of peace but upon the battle field and hospitals during almost the entire course of the war between the states. Flushed and at times choked by em- tion, she began by acknowledging her inability to make a suitable reply, ut before she finished she not only proved equal to the occasion but ex- ceeded her own expectations as well as those of her auditors.

Several years ago she had officiated n the Opera House when crosses of honor were pinned upon the breasts of Alexandrians and others who has been Confederate soldiers. Virginia Division Daughters of the Confede- racy had determined to place a cross of honor upon her, and there is none more deserving such an honor. This Alexandria matron has not only la- bored assiduously in the various or- ganizations of women who are pre- serving the memories of the south- ern soldier and the cause for which he contended, but while in her teens she followed the army from field to field, nursing the wounded, speaking consolation to the dying, and minis- tering to the wants of the wounded in hospitals. She was upon the battle field of Bull Run, receiving the bap tism of fire with the Alexandria boys, and kept close by them during al- most the entire four years of war. Let us hope Mrs. J. E. Alexander will wear her badge of honor many years.

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR MR. BRYAN.

As had been anticipated, Mr. Bryan wants to follow President Wil- son in his tour of the country and make replies to the suggestions of the executive concerning prepared- ness. According to statements made in Washington, the former Secretary of State will be on hand at each point to attempt to refute whatever the President may say in regard to the present helplessness of the United States in case it is found necessary to stand upon the offensive.

This plan is ominous and its out- come is viewed with anxiety by most of the rank and file of the democratic party. We expressed the opinion yesterday that the President of the United States should not go upon the stump in order to have his admin- istration affirmed. His policies should be the answer to all criticisms.

No President has, so far, added anything to his standing by mak- ing speeches from the rear platform of trains. If a special train is to fol- low that bearing Mr. Wilson from which William Jennings Bryan will speak in refutation of anything Mr. Wilson may say concerning his pro- gram of preparedness, the latter will gain nothing, while the Nebraskan always fattens upon speech-making.

In the earlier history of this coun- try Presidents were averse to stump- ing the country. In 1884, when it was evident that James G. Blaine, was losing ground as candidate for President, his supporters carried him about the country. He went down in defeat.

Mr. Wilson has heretofore shown proper dignity by keeping off the platform as much as possible. He may see his way clear in the purpose he has just announced, but many think it was an unwise move.

Fearing assassination, King Con- stantine of Greece has doubled the strength of his body-guard and sel- dom appears in public. Adherents of the king declare that emissaries of the entente powers are active through- out Greece, and are spending gold lavishly to stir up revolutionary out- breaks. It is further charged that England and France plan to take advantage of the turbulence arising from antigovernment uprisings to seize the capital and establish a mili- tary dictatorship, so that they could use Greek military resources for their own ends.

This gives immediate effect to the order of the Supreme Court that, under the Sherman anti-trust law, the mem- bers of the hatters' union are liable for the $240,000 damages assessed in favor of Loew & Co., for the alleg- ed injury they suffered through the boycott growing out of the famous hatters' strike in 1903.

SALES MAKES REPORT.

Wants State to Indemnify Soldiers Incapacitated in Military Service.

Richmond, Jan 20—The annual report of the Adjutant-General of Virginia for the year ending October 20, 1915, was filed yesterday in the office of Governor Stuart.

According to the report, there are in the service 218 officers and 2,840 men, a total of 3,058.

The Adjutant-General announces that the formation of machine-gun companies is greatly desired, and advocates such formations in the immediate future.

The report discuses briefly the discipline, aid to the civil authorities, and criticizes the State military law to some extent. The formation of an ambulance and engineering corps is also discussed. The various camps and rifle ranges are each given special mention, and recommendations for each is made at this time. The courts-martial during the past year are commented upon, though no specific cases are cited.

The State appropriation last year is given at $78,195.06, and the appropriation for the year given in the report shows that $2,810.58 more is appropriated to the department. The great need for storage warehouses is stressed.

The report ends with the recommendation for the passage of a number of laws, as follows:

A recommendation that a uniform law be passed that all towns and cities be required to strike the fire bell fifteen times or "three sixes" in case of a call for the militia.

To indemnify soldiers who are incapacitated in service.

To have at once a proper adjustment of the property losses and to have the proper official proceed at once to Washington to adjust such losses.

An annual appropriation of $25,000 is asked for the building of armories until all companies in the State are properly housed.

That a proper storage place and warehouse be erected for the storing of the property of the Virginia Volunteers.

That in the case of the movement of troops the transportation companies give the right of way to troop trains.

Asking that a sergeant-instructor for artillery batteries be appointed, and one who is also familiar with the instruction necessary for the Signal Corps.

The advocacy of suitable rifle ranges for the various companies in the State.

The final recommendation was that machine-gun companies be formed as soon as possible. The Adjutant-General pointed out at some length the advantage that would accure to the department were several such companies to be formed.

DECLARES GERMANY INNOCENT

America Placed Among Greatest Enemies of Fatherland.

Berlin, Jan. 20— In the Prussian chamber of deputies yesterday, Herr Von Heydebrand, the Conservative leader, referred incidentally to America as among German's "worst enemies."

Germany, he said, enjoyed the splendid feeling of being innocent of all the horrors of this war.

"I should not wish to bear the responsibility of our worst enemies, among which America must now be reckoned, because it prolonged the war for at least one year," he declared.

Discussing taxation prospects, Herr von Heydebrand expressed the gravest concern at the probable burdens to be placed on the wealthier classes, and feared for the independent existence of the individual states. Things already had gone so far, he said, that the taxpayers must place a fifth, a fourth or even a considerably larger part of their income upon the altar of the country.

He warned the imperial government against levying further direct taxes, but admitted that his confidence in the government in this matter was not unlimited. If direct taxes were placed upon incomes and property from all quarters, that must lead to the impoverishment of the wealthier classes, he asserted.

Miss Hortense Gerstel, an athletic young woman, prevented an intended murder at her father's cafe, in Reading, Pa., yesterday when she caught the wrist of Rudolp Fiester as he rushed into the place and began firing a revolver at his wife, who is employed there and from whom he had been separated. Although Miss Gerstel wrestled Fiester to the floor, after everybody else had fled to safety, she was unable to prevent him from shooting himself near the heart, and he is dying in a hospital. After his wife had escaped by running into another room, he fired three shots through the door.

GOING BLIND, KILLS SELF.

"God Will Not Be Angry," Wrote Woman.

New York, Jan., 20. —Mrs. Dora Knowlton Ranous, writer and translator, killed herself with gas in a furnished room at 246 West One Hundred and Third street, yesterday. She left a note to Dr. Rossiter Johnson, who had collaborated with her, saying:

"God will not be angry with me. I have confessed everything to him. He knows how much I bear and must know I can bear no more. My eyes are failing me, an dthe blackest misery, is ahead of me. There is no one to take care of me if my eyes and general health go."

Born at Ashfield, Mass., 52 years ago, Mrs. Ranous was for a time a member of Augustin Daly's company with John Drew and Ada Rehan. She wrote a book about her experiences called "The Dairy of a Daily Debutante." Her 20 volume translation of French Immortals was crowned by the Academy.

VON WEDELL BELIEVED DEAD.

Alleged Conspirator Reported On Vessel Sunk by Mine.

New York, Jan 20.—Hans Adam von Wedell, indicted here on February 4, 1915, as head of an alleged conspiracy to furnish American passports to Germans reservists returning home by neutral ports, is believed to be dead, according to an announcement made by the Federal prosecuting authorities here yesterday.

Advices received from England, it was said, indicate that Von Wedell, who was taken from the Scandinavian-American liner Bergensfjord by the British authorities while attempting to escape from this country, was drowned with many others when a naval vessel conveying him from Kirkwall to a British alien enemy detention camp struck a mine and was sunk.

When Government Secret Service agents here attempted to round up the alleged passport conspirators last year Von Wedell, who had been living at a local club, could not be found It was then learned that a man answering his description had sailed on the Bergensfjord under an assumed name.

GREAT BATTLE ENDS

Austro-Hungarian Officials Say The Russian Losses Were at Least 70,000

Berlin, Jan. 19—The official communication of the Austro-Hungarian headquarters, dated yesterday says:

"The New Year's battle in East Galicia and on the Bessarabian frontier can now be considered as finished. Since Monday there have been no new events.

"The Austro-Hungarian arms were completely victorious on the 1300 kilometre (about 800 miles) long battle front. Our infantry, which decided the engagements, assisted by the artillery, maintained all its positions against the enemy, who, at some places, was several times superior numerically.

"The great New Year's battle in Austria's northeast, which began December 24 and was only interrupted during some days, ended January 15. Numerous regiments were, for 17 days, in the hottest of the fighting.

"The Russian losses were at least 70,000 men killed or wounded and nearly 6,000 Russians made prisoners by the Austro-Hungarians.

"The enemy is bringing reinforcements to East Galicia."

TOWEL STRANGLES BABY

Philadelphia, Jan. 20— Sliding out of a high chair yesterday Marie Bell eight months old, of Manayunk, was strangled to death by the towel with which her mother had tied her in the seat when she found it necesary to go to a nearby store.

On her return the mother was horrified to find the child dangling with her neck in the noose formed by the towel. Hastily untying the knot and releasing the baby, she called to a neighbor to summon a doctor. Meanwhile she worked frantically in a vain effort to restore the tiny victim's failing breath. She collapsed in despair just as Dr. Linton R. Turner arrived.

The physician saw at a glance that the child was dead. Upon learning this the mother became hysterical and required treatment by the physician. She is said to be in a serious condition.

TRIAL OF MRS. MOHR

Alleged to Have Prepared Poison for Her Husband Before Shooting

Providence, Jan. 20—These are some of the amazing bits of testimony brought into the Mohr trial yesterday.

That Mrs. Mohr several weeks before the shooting gave a poisonous prescription to Brown, the negro stable boy, with directions to put a few drops in Dr. Mohr's coffee some morning.

That she tried aiming at Dr. Mohr and Miss Burger from her window as they rode by her house in an automobile.

That she said she would throw vitriol in Miss Burger's face.

That she began writing letters threatening to kill Miss Burger two years ago.

That she maintained an intimate friendship with Brown, and with Healis, the negro chauffeur.

That she took them into her confidence and discussed family troubles with them.

That she wrote letters to Healis about her private affairs beginning them "Dear George," and ending "Yours respectfully."

That she invited them into her home as guests and that she prepared a meal for Brown at 10 o'clock one night.

That she tuaght her little son Charles to spy on his father, explaining to the boy all about her troubles and his father's practice.
